BREED THEATER. Miss Florence Wolcott, Soprano, Delights Audience.

One of the most pleasing features Monday evening's performance at the Breed theater was the delightful sing-ing of Miss Florence Wolcott, the for-mer prima doma soprano of the Bos-tonians. Miss Wolcott rendered the onions. Miss Wolcott rendered the difficult Fadatic Waltz, otherwise inown as "Dearest," by Tito Mattet, THE FIRST SIGN that it is Lee & Charleston fall festival to six thousand purple. She has a wonderful voice like has been highly cultivated, it being rich, cultured and refined. The main exacting trills and rich, demandation on the entire system, quite dismany exacting trills and rins, defianding mosterly treatment, the full broad vilkeax showing to giventage the unlimited scope of her ability. She responded with the popular favorite, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," to a very insistent encore, her novel conception of it bringing out many of the delicate points that are usually overlooked. There is a discour personality about the singer, her charming stage presence precluding charming stage presence precluding any question as to her ability. The very excellent bill of high grade moiiin pictures was received with much fevor, there being many that were at once interesting and thrilling.

Rev. Pliny F. Cooney Transferred to Waterbury-Priest and Preacher, Whose Influence Has Been Far-

Rev. J. W. Hoey announced on Sunday that his curate, the Rev. P. F. Cooney, had been transferred to Waterbury. The news of Father Cooterbory. The news of Father Cooney's departure cast a gloom over the entire parish. Although only among the people a year and ten months, by his sound disposition and fatherly interest in hos good work he has won the hearts of his people who deeply regret his departure. Father Cooney has been principal of the parocnial school since coming here and under his supervision the pupils have made rapid progress. By his sympathy for and generosity with them he has endeaved himself to the children, who are saddened at the thought of his leavaddened at the thought of his leav-ng. West.

To the West, to the West, where the rivers that flow
Run thousands of miles, spreading out as they go.
Where the green waving forests shall echo our call,
As wide as old England and free to us all; where the prairies, like seas where the billows have rolled.
Are as broad as the kingdoms and empires of old.
And lakes are like oceans, in storm and in rest.
Away, far away, to the land of the West.

POETRY.

To the West, to the West, there is wealth to be won;
The forest to clear is the work to be done;.
We'll try it, we'll do it, and never despair.
While there's light in the sunshine or breath in the air;
The bold independence that labor shall hav Shall strengthen our hands and forbid us to sigh. Away, far away, let us hope for the best. And build up a home in the land of the West.

WHY WE STAY SINGLE.

And it's "Dearin, fix the range."
Is "Have you wound the clock, love."
And it's "Have you say change."
Is "Hook me up the back, pet."
And "Lock the sellar door."
And "Lock the sellar door."
Ind it's "Do be careful not to spill.
Those ashes on the floor.
So let the bumper chruiste.
And quaff a mounful glass.
Unto the humble benedict.
Alaz, alas, alas.
